MESSAGE FROM THE PROVOST

Vice-Chancellor, Pro Vice-Chancellors, Provosts, Deans, Directors, Heads of Department, Faculty and Staff of the College of Humanities, Ladies and Gentlemen; I am truly excited to welcome you all to the maiden edition of the College of Humanities (CoH) Awards event. The College of Humanities was established in 2014 as the largest of the University of Ghana's four colleges with the objective to create synergy for interdisciplinary teaching, learning and research in the Arts, Social Sciences, Business and Law; provide faculty and students with skills in its various fields to contribute to the development needs of the country; establish and promote international networks of Arts, Social Sciences, Business and Law; and enhance the sharing of human, financial and material resources.

The College has a total of 6 schools, 11 centres and 4 research institutes, whose faculty and staff, since its inception, have been working tirelessly to achieve the vision of the University of Ghana by actualising the objectives of the college. Through our collective hard work, the college can boast of a strong intellectual tradition, with quality and diverse academic programmes that make it the preferred choice for many prospective students both local and foreign. It is for this reason that the maiden College of Humanities Awards event is being held to recognise and reward the efforts of staff who have exhibited exemplary behaviour and performance over the period of its existence.

Employee recognition in all forms is a critical ingredient in our College's performance management system and we intend to make it a key pillar of the College's strategic objectives.

COLLEGE OF HUMANITIES

In this regard, we intend to make the College Awards an annual event to illustrate our belief in the importance of recognition and rewards in improving organisational values, enhancing team efforts, boosting productivity, and increasing both employee and customer satisfaction. I would like to thank university management and the entire university community, for their continued support and partnership. May we all continue to work together to move the premier university forward and elevate the University of Ghana brand through the College of Humanities. To all award winners I say Ayekoo and congratulations on your achievement.

Thank you for all your efforts and continue to hard work to maintain the standards you have set. We look forward to seeing you all at the next event.

Thank you.
